President welcomes Portillo

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter welcomed Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo with special expressions of friendship today, pledging to go beyond the requirements of diplomacy to enhance future relations.

At South Lawn ceremonies absent some of the pomp familiar in previous administrations, Carter told Lopez Portillo:

"I pledge to you in the coming months and years I will go even further than is required through diplomatic courtesy to work closely with you on a personal and official basis" to make an "unprecedented continual demonstration of common purpose, common hope, common confidence and common friendship."

Carter noted that his wife had attended Lopez Portillo's inauguration in December and that Mrs. Lopez Portillo had come to Washington for the Carter inauguration. He cited this "exchange of personal friendship" as an indication of the close continuing consultation that will go on between Mexico and the United States.

This two-day visit would provide an opportunity to try to correct longstanding economic problems and "to show there are new ways to deal with old problems," Carter said.

Speaking in Spanish, his words translated for several hundred diplomats, tourists and government workers gathered on the South Lawn, Lopez Portillo said that he wished "to be very good friends of the American people."

Though Carter said he wanted to cut pomp and ceremony for foreign visitors, there was little change for the Lopez Portillo visit. There was a red-carpeted podium, a 21-gun salute, playing of the national anthems, some 300 servicemen and a color guard lined up for review by the two Presidents.

On Sunday night he conferred with U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young, just returned from a 10-day trip to Africa that ended in controversy.

Young said on Saturday that former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger "abandoned" the British in arranging the Geneva conference on Rhodesia. Young said Kissinger put the "burden on

Warehouse standoff

Nazi type kills five

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP) — A husky, heavily armed rifleman, said to idolize Adolf Hitler, invaded a warehouse today and shot and killed at least five persons, including a policeman. At least three other persons were wounded and he held at least two hostages.

The gunman, reportedly clad in a Nazi-style uniform and armed with a high-powered rifle, held police at bay from the inside and the roof of a moving company's warehouse, police said.

The dead policeman, identified as officer Allen McLeod, 29, of Larchmont, was removed from alongside the warehouse at about 11:30 a.m., EST. An hour later, the bodies of two other persons were removed from the vestibule of the warehouse.

Nearly five hours after the siege began, police said they had made telephone contact with the gunman. They said he had asked for food and that he "sounds rational, but very hostile."

The gunman, described by an employee of Neptune Worldwide Moving Co. as a worker recently suspended, barged into the warehouse and began firing just before 8 a.m., police said.

"At this point, we will do whatever he asks for," a police spokesman said shortly before 1 p.m.

Meanwhile, police said a number of persons — at least five — remained hostage inside as the gunman kept up sporadic fire.

Company workers who were present at the time the shooting began identified the gunman as Fred Cowan, about 35. New Rochelle officials, including the mayor and police, said the man inside was Cowan.

A neighbor of Cowan's, who asked not to be identified, said Cowan, who lives with his parents in New Rochelle, maintained an arsenal of guns at his residence.

"He's got every kind of rifle that ever was made, and has been collecting them since he was a kid," the neighbor said. "Ever since he was a kid, he's been bugged on Hitler. Hitler is his idol."

Company workers said the gunman was a strapping man whose body was tattooed with Nazi symbols. The neighbor said Cowan had Nazi uniforms and swastikas on a wall in the house he lives in and said the man "walks around in a Nazi uniform sometimes."

The gunman's parents were brought to the scene in the hopes that he could be talked into giving himself up, but a policeman at the scene said authorities expected a continuing gun battle.

The rifleman fired both from inside the warehouse and from the roof of the building.

A company employee said that up to 50 persons could have been reporting for work when the shootings began. Many of them ran out the back door of the warehouse when the shooting began.

Police wearing bullet-proof vests and carrying high-powered weapons cordoned off a two-block area around the

Gas problems

Classrooms at Mark Twain Elementary School were quiet and empty Monday morning as classes were cancelled due to a gasoline leak in the neighborhood which filled the building's basement with fumes. Alonzo Byrd, a Missouri Public Service Co. employee, left, spent the morning using a gas "sniffer" to check the building and surrounding sewers for fumes. Byrd said the fumes had diminished significantly since he first started taking readings at the school Friday.

Mark Twain closed

Gas check continuing

The Mark Twain Elementary School, Second and Grand, was closed Monday while local fire department and Missouri Public Service Co. (MPS) officials investigated and worked on gasoline fumes traced to an abandoned submerged gasoline tank at Main and Prospect.

John Thomas, assistant superintendent of schools, Monday morning said workmen have succeeded in forcing most of the fumes and odor from the building. However, he added, the building's furnace was not going to be turned on until further precautions are taken. The school was evacuated for five minutes Friday morning when the fumes were first detected. The problem was caused by leaking gasoline entering the school through the sewer system.

Sedalia Fire Chief Willis Jabas and Sanitation Superintendent Gary Johnson drove to Kansas City Monday morning to borrow a gasoline "sniffer" from the city's fire department. Such a device, used to detect the existence and level of gasoline fumes in the air, is not available locally. The local MPS has a natural gas sniffer, but this device is not designed to detect trace amounts of straight gasoline fumes.

Jabas and Johnson will also probably make arrangements to purchase a gasoline sniffer for the city, Mayor Allen Hawkins said Monday. Because the cost of the device will only be around $150, it will not be necessary to receive bids on it, Hawkins explained. The funds to purchase the device will come from either the fire department or sanitation department or possibly a portion will come from each department budget, Hawkins said.

Local MPS engineer Bill Hiatt said the gasoline tank leak was caused by the natural deterioration of a discarded submerged tank. However, a separate case of gasoline fumes was reported to Chief Jabas Monday morning by Gary Duell, owner and operator of Scotten's Book and Newspaper Store, 712 South Ohio.

Merchants in the 700 block of South Ohio were bothered in October, 1975, by gasoline fumes coming from a submerged tank at Dick's 66 Service Station, 121 East Broadway. The tank was uncovered, drained and pressure-tested that fall and the situation subsequently cleared up. Jabas was not available for comment on this complaint Monday morning.

Israel might reinstate swap for no-war pledge

JERUSALEM (AP) — When U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance visits here this week, Israeli officials may revive their proposal to exchange some of the occupied territories for individual no-war agreements with their Arab foes, informed sources report.

The Israelis shelved the proposal when the Arabs began pushing last year for resumption of the Geneva peace talks to write an overall Arab-Israeli settlement.

Publicly the Israelis have stressed their readiness to return to Geneva as long as the Palestine Liberation Organization is not present as a separate, full-fledged participant. But with the Arabs insisting on PLO participation, the Israelis say privately that talk of resuming the conference now is unrealistic.

Israeli spokesmen have said their government would prefer that the United States mediate "far-reaching interim agreements" providing for withdrawal from some of the occupied Arab lands in exchange for firm Arab commitments ending the state of war.

Vance, who arrives Tuesday, has said that during his trip he plans to investigate a reported shift toward moderation by the PLO. But the Israelis are skeptical.

PLO leader Yasir Arafat "may play tactics with any Western leader, but he can't fool us," Foreign Minister Yigal Allon said during the visit last week of U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim.

Arafat reportedly told Waldheim that the Palestinians would agree to establishment of a Palestinian state made up of the West Bank of the Jordan river and the Gaza Strip but still would neither recognize Israel nor make peace with it.

The Israelis intend to remind Vance of the commitment President Ford made to Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin in September 1975 that the United States will not recognize the PLO until the guerrilla organization recognizes Israel's right to exist and agrees to U.N. resolutions calling for negotiations.

Flat Creek water creates problems

An effort by the Sedalia Water Department to cut expenses by pumping water into the city from Flat Creek, rather than city wells, was curtailed Saturday because of taste and odor problems.

The problem situation was caused, water department manager Herb Taylor explained Monday, by an excessively high algae content in the raw Flat Creek water. Because of that, the water department's treatment stations could not completely remove the resultant odor and taste. As soon as the problem was discovered, Taylor said the department switched back to the wells. There was no danger in drinking or using the water, it was reported.

The department periodically uses Flat Creek as a city water supply source. However, Taylor said, the creek will not be used again until sufficient rainfall has "flushed" the creek of the excessive algae.

Bess Truman observes her 92nd birthday

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Bess Truman, affectionately referred to as "the boss" by the late former President Harry S. Truman, quietly observed her 92nd birthday Sunday.

"My daughter's here, so that's going to make my birthday," Mrs. Truman said Saturday.

Margaret Truman Daniel arrived here from New York last Monday and was expected to return to her home today.

She said her mother is in good health except for an arthritic condition that has ended traditional trips to the nearby Truman Library and the supermarket. She still visits the beauty parlor weekly.

Friends say that she reads, watches television, keeps in touch with close friends by telephone, and responds to a considerable volume of correspondence. She lives alone in the white, victorian style home that once served as the summer White House.

Truman died Dec. 26, 1972, and although public appearances for Mrs. Truman have always been rare, she still receives notables when they visit, such as President Gerald Ford while he was here last May for the dedication of a bronze statue of Truman in Independence.

Committee finds fault with handling of POWs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Department officials failed to conduct a thorough investigation of whether any U.S. servicemen violated military law while they were prisoners of war in North Vietnam, a special Pentagon committee charges.

"The investigations were minimal and the rationale supporting dismissal" of charges that some former POWs brought against others in 1973 "was very weak," the Defense Review Committee said.

It strongly suggested that this resulted from policy guidance from high officials in the Defense Department at that time.

Melvin R. Laird was defense secretary while preparations were made and policies drafted for the expected freeing of the Americans held as war prisoners. Elliot Richardson succeeded Laird and was in office when Hanoi released 566 POWs four years ago.

The report gave the first official voice to bitter criticism expressed at the time by senior POWs, some of whom tried unsuccessfully to get the armed services to prosecute nine former prisoners for allegedly cooperating with the North Vietnamese.

The 11-member civilian-military committee, which included four former POWs, addressed this question in a report recommending changes in the 22-year-old Military Code of Conduct.

The changes would make it clear that U.S. servicemen could give captors more information than name, rank, service number and birth date, but only after reaching the limits of their ability to resist torture or other severe duress.

A copy of the report, completed in November and left over for the Carter administration to consider, became available over the weekend.

The code is a standard of conduct expected of all U.S. servicemen. It is not a law. However, the Uniform Code of Military Justice (UCMJ) is a parallel law and it provides penalties for aiding an enemy or other violations.

There were strong differences of opinion about the code among the Americans who were captured during the Vietnam fighting.

Nehru sister critical of Mrs. Gandhi regime

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, former Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's sister and one of the best known women in India, has joined the campaign to end the 11-year rule of her niece, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

Mrs. Pandit, who was the first woman president of the United Nations General Assembly and served as ambassador to the United States, the Soviet Union and Britain, is 76 and has been in retirement for nearly nine years. But her stand is likely to be a psychological blow to Mrs. Gandhi as well as a big boost to the morale of her opponents.

She said she would not run in the parliamentary election next month nor join any political party formally. But she pledged to campaign actively for "the human values to which India has traditionally ascribed."

"It is of the highest importance to put an end to the authoritarian trend which has grown to vast proportions and is destroying cherished values," she said.

Mrs. Pandit told a news conference today that she did not "see a single reason" for the state of emergency in June 1975, under which Mrs. Gandhi suspended civil rights, imposed censorship and put her chief political opponents in jail.

She said the "essence of democracy is the right to dissent" and that "it was shocking to me to see all dissent muzzled and those who disagreed with the government put in prison."

Her news conference was held at the home of Jagjivan Ram, who resigned as agriculture minister two weeks ago and formed a new Congress for Democracy party in revolt against Mrs. Gandhi's leadership of the ruling Congress party.

Although she told the news conference she loved Mrs. Gandhi "very dearly," Mrs. Pandit has reportedly been at political odds with her niece for years. In an interview with the New York Times last October, she said Mrs. Gandhi's government was "far more repressive today, in many ways," than were the British who imprisoned her.

Legislative roundup

First hearing for loan bill

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Interest rates on small loans would be drastically increased under provisions of a bill coming up for consideration in the state Senate Banks Committee this week.

The measure, sponsored by Benton Democrat John Dennis, is one of several bills being heard in the 14 Senate and 25 House committee meetings scheduled in the Missouri legislature this week.

As the two house reconvened Monday, the Senate was again expected to take a look at a bill defining death as the irreversible cessation of total brain functions as determined by customary medical practice.

That measure, sponsored by Sen. Joe Frappier, R-St. Charles, came up for brief consideration last week, but Frappier set it aside for later debate to give the Senate a chance to study a report by the Senate select committee on the definition of death.

The small loan increase bill will be heard Wednesday night. Right now, loans up to $500 are considered small loans, and the interest rate on them cannot exceed 26.16 per cent annually. All loans over $500 fall under the state's usury limit law of a maximum rate of 10 per cent.

But under the provisions of Dennis' bill, the rate for loans up to $300 would be increased to 30 per cent, those between $300 and $1,000 would be 21 per cent and loans of between $1,000 and $5,000 would carry an interest rate limit of 15 per cent.

The massive recodification of the state's election laws is at the top of the House schedule today. Former Election Committee Chairman Vic Downing has said he believes the 500-page bill has one of its best chances of passage this session.

The proposal, intended to modernize, update and make more uniform the state's elections process, would limit elections to only five days a year and shorten voting hours.

Downing will have a busy week, since he's presenting major pieces of legislation to House Committees.

He was scheduled to appear Monday night before the Election Committee to present a bill revising the state's campaign finance and disclosure law. That law, approved by the voters in a 1974 referendum, has been called a deterrent to those who would otherwise seek minor offices.

Under Downing's bill, the law's spending and contribution limits would be eliminated and candidates spending less than $500 for an office paying less than $1,500 annually would not have to file campaign spending and contribution reports.

Downing is also to present to the House Judiciary Committee a definition of death bill, identical to the one Frappier has in the Senate.

At the top of the Senate's business calendar this week is a bill by St. Louis Democrat John Schneider which would let a person deduct on his state income tax any tuition he pays for himself, spouse or dependent.

Also expected to come up for consideration is a proposal by Hornersville Democrat Nelson Tinnin, which would prohibit the state or any public entity in the state to purchase beef which was produced outside the United States. An identical bill failed to gain passage last session.

A bill giving the state Division of Insurance more power to monitor the activities of insurance companies operating in the state was scheduled to be heard today in the Senate Insurance Committee.

A division spokesman said insurance companies have mounted "an intensive lobbying effort" against the bill, which is sponsored by St. Louis Democrat James Conway.

Other committee meetings this week include the House Motor Vehicles panel considering a measure which would do away with the requirement that every person operating and riding a motorcycle wear a helmet.

Landlords requiring a rental or security deposit from tenants would have to pay 5 per cent interest on the deposit if the rental period is for one year or longer under the terms of a bill being considered in the House Consumer Protection Committee.

The Senate version of that committee, Public Health and Consumer Protection, will study a bill requiring dealers repairing television sets and motor vehicles to provide customers with a written estimate of the cost of repairs any time the estimate is over $50.

Western Canadians talking about creating own nation

EDITOR'S NOTE: — The big issue in Canada right now is the question of secession — or separation — by the French-speaking Province of Quebec. But in the resources-rich Canadian west some people are talking about independence for themselves.

By NORMA RAMAGE
Canadian Press Writer

CALGARY, Alberta (AP) — Douglas Christie says he doesn't like the word separatism — heard more and more these days when Canadians talk about French-speaking Quebec. When he talks about the organization he heads Christie prefers the word independence.

Christie, a lawyer from Victoria, British Columbia, is regarded as the driving force behind the 1,600-member Committee for Western Independence. It was organized just over a year ago to promote awareness of western Canada's identity and to consider whether the west should leave the 110-year-old Canadian Confederation.

A similar organization, the 600-member Independent Alberta Association, was formed in late 1974 to collect information to determine whether oilwealthy Alberta would be better off on its own as an independent nation.

John Rudolph, an oil man who heads the association, said in a recent interview that studies by economists and political scientists indicate Alberta would be better off both economically and politically either on its own or linked with other western provinces as a separate nation.

But Douglas Christie maintained in a recent interview that the word separatism has hostile and harmful connotations and was conjured up by the federal government in Ottawa to frighten people away from groups such as his.

"But it definitely means a situation where the western provinces have control of their resources and are able to influence the federal government," he added.

"I do not believe it is possible to have this kind of situation in Confederation as it now stands."

Under the existing political system, the west is disfranchised, Christie claimed, adding that the four western provinces have 68 seats compared with Ontario's 88 in Parliament in Ottawa and the votes of western Canadians have no real impact on the selection of a federal government.

The west suffers economically within the Confederation, he says.

Christie lists some of the familiar and deep-rooted complaints of western Canada: shipment of western resources to central Canada where they are processed and returned as finished products which are more expensive in the west than in the east; discriminatory freight rates; unprofitable industries in central Canada which are protected by high tariffs, making many articles much more expensive in Canada than in the United States, and the current struggle over who should control provincial resources.

He contends that the existing situation is intolerable and one of the aims of the committee is to let western Canadians know the cost of remaining in the Confederation, Christie says.

After that, political action would be attempted to remedy these inequalities.

Legislators get tough on cigar puffer

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Will Mahoney is so angry he could spit. And he fully intends to do so.

Mahoney is a Republican member of the Connecticut House who chain smokes great green cigars. If the smoke bothers other folks, he says that's just too bad.

But the two houses of the Connecticut legislature passed rules this year forbidding smoking in both chambers and in public hearings.

"An earring, a moustache, or a cigar is often an integral part of one's personality," Mahoney said, "and I question the authority of any legislative body to regulate personality."

He filed three bills: One, to repeal the no-smoking rules; another, to forbid the use of perfumes and colognes in the state Capitol, and a third requiring that spittoons be placed once again in the chambers of the state House and Senate and in all committee rooms.

All three bills were "boxed" by a General Assembly Committee, an action that effectively kills them.

HECKART/GILLESPIE FUNERAL HOME

WE PERFORM AT LEAST 85 SERVICES FOR A FUNERAL!

We handle a myriad of details for each funeral to meet the special wishes and needs of the family. As funeral directors, we often help out for several months after the funeral to make sure all details are completed.

It is important for funeral directors to consult at length with the family on literally dozens of details. Here are just a few of them:

FUNERAL: Setting its time and who is to officiate; choice of casket and clothing, music, Scriptures, etc.

CEMETERY: purchase of lot or opening of family plot; getting permits.

NOTICES: arranging death certificates, obituaries, notifying fraternal (or other) groups.

FUNERAL DAY: organizing service details; helping conduct service; providing family cars and organizing procession.

CLAIMS: helping family file for Social Security, military, union or insurance benefits.

Any of the 85 service details can cause grief when not handled right. We have to give EVERY funeral 110% of our time and attention to perform a service which comforts and fulfills the family's needs.

Hearing aid restrictions announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hearing aids that now are as easy to buy as aspirin won't be after this summer, under new restrictions announced by the Food and Drug Administration.

The new procedure will be somewhat like buying drugs with a doctor's prescription, except that a person may still insist on buying a hearing aid without seeing a doctor. Prescription drugs cannot legally be bought unless a physician approves.

The regulatory agency said Sunday that it was acting because a review of information given to hearing-aid buyers indicated they were being given "inadequate and, in some cases, misleading" sales pitches.

It said that persons who are hard of hearing should see a doctor before buying an electronic device that may or may not help them.

About three million people in the United States now use hearing aids, presently available to anyone who wants one and can pay for it.

The FDA estimates that 15 million Americans suffer from hearing impairment but that fewer than five million of them have ever had a medical evaluation of their condition.

Under the FDA regulation that takes effect in six months, hearing aids may be sold only if the buyer has a doctor's written statement suggesting that a hearing aid might help or if the buyer specifically and in writing waives a medical examination.

Fashion sense from a salesgirl

By ELLIE GROSSMAN

NEW YORK (NEA) — She had a masters degree from Columbia University in public law and government, so it was bizarre when Clara Pierre happily sought a job as a salesgirl in Valentino's boutique in Manhattan in 1970.

"I'd left a very demanding job doing international legal research and I'd gotten married and was working on the apartment, when I saw this enormous sign in Valentino's for sales people. I thought, well, as a total lark maybe for a month it would be fun."

She stayed for four seasons and left with the basis of her book, "Looking Good," recently published by Reader's Digest Press.

"I found myself taking notes on breaks and lunch hours on things I observed there," she explains, "because as a sales person you work very closely with women in a way I hadn't been aware of before. You're a psychologist, a mirror, a general advisor."

And sometimes, a trendsetter's trendsetter. "Jackie Onassis came in one time — she bought five suede jackets

From law to sales

Clara Pierre quit a job in international legal research and took one as a sales girl. (NEA)

in different colors — and she boots were and where I got asked me how much my suede them."

Other customers sought advice, did this fit, did that look good. "Consequently I saw how insecure women are, especially women who have a lot of money. People who came in off the street very often had more assurance and knew what they wanted. They'd buy on a smaller scale."

Then there were some who came in every season "for the handful of clothes covered with Valentino's initials. That doesn't always indicate insecurity, but I do think much of it rests on that because it's an identification with a way of life."

But it's all changing now, she says. "The pill, women's lib, women's active participation in the life of this country, they've all bolstered women's confidence. And this has been reflected in clothes."

The single standard of fashion and beauty is, if not dead, moribund.

"My sense is that women are looking less to the media for a sense of guidance and there's not that slavish desire to follow what other people say is fashion."

Back in the '60s, "when the youth cult took over, Twiggy was an icon of what everyone should be like. Well, recently she gained 20 pounds and that was front page news. In a sense, it's symbolic of a coming of age. It says she's through with being an adolescent; she's becoming a woman. And we've all outgrown that certain look because the buying public is statistically older. She's more upper 20s and 30s and in the '60s she was a teenager and her buying power was buoyed up by the economy."

Now, she maintains, the icons are not quite as thin. "The emphasis in clothes is not on the stick-like look. St. Laurent's peasant clothes, for instance, cinch the waist but there's fullness there."

And we've weathered that confusion of sexual roles. "When unisex clothes were very strong, that represented a mixed up feeling of sexual roles. Now our clothes are more feminine."

Still, there are women who aren't sure of themselves and what's important for them is to become sure.

Polly's pointers

Don't bleach old lampshades

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Most of the Pointers are concerned with things to do but mine is for something not to do. I had taken some medicine that was in one of those bottles with a "child proof" lid that a child supposedly cannot open. When the bottle was empty my four-year-old son wanted to play with the empty bottle so I gave it to him and found he could open the "child proof" lid. I asked him how he knew how to open the bottle and he said he had watched me do it. My point is that one should not let a child even watch you open such a bottle as lives might be saved by taking this precaution. I wish someone had warned me. — MRS. R.L.C.

DEAR POLLY — I have just rediscovered something I knew and did 50 years ago. I wanted to use some old lace and embroidery on doll clothes I was making. But regardless of how I washed and tried to iron it it looked old or used. A piece of the lace was spread out on my dryer and, while looking at the design, I pressed it out with my fingers and it stuck to the top of the dryer. Then I remembered that one can take clean wet lace, embroidery or handkerchiefs and lay them, right side up, on top of the washer or the dryer, press all the wrinkles out with hands and leave them to dry. They come off easily and look like new. I was so excited at remembering this that I did all sorts of things and a neighbor who came in when I was removing and folding them asked what kind of starch I had used. They were beautiful with no starch, no nothing, just clean, wet and pressed and dried on the dryer or a similar surface. — R.M.J.

DEAR POLLY — When my husband was ill recently he received a bouquet of roses that were placed in the cool air from the air conditioner and then instead of adding water we put in ice cubes and the roses stayed pretty for a week. — MRS. L.K.W.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — I have cleaned my fabric lampshades several times with cleaning fluid and a soft brush but now my off-white shades are yellow. What can I use to remove this yellow color as otherwise the shades are perfectly good and useable? I have three such shades and new ones would cost at least $10 each so would dipping them in water and detergent and then rinsing remove the yellow color. I am afraid to use bleach without some instructions so what is your opinion? — MRS. E.N.O.

DEAR MRS. E.N.O. — I would not use bleach under any condition as the heat from light bulbs has doubtless weakened the fibers in the shade fabric and they might just fall apart. Do not try even washing shades if they have any glued parts. Washing would get them clean but I am afraid the yellowed look is there to stay. Does anyone else have anything to offer concerning such shades? If so do let us hear from you. — POLLY. (NEA)

How to bake gluten bread

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Some of the cooks who buy the "protein" breads available in supermarkets and bakeries have asked us how to bake such loaves at home. The most popular of these bought breads are made with special combinations of gluten flour and other flours and we have not yet tried to duplicate them. However, recently we baked an excellent all-gluten-flour loaf. Gluten flour, high in protein, is available in some health food shops and by mail order.

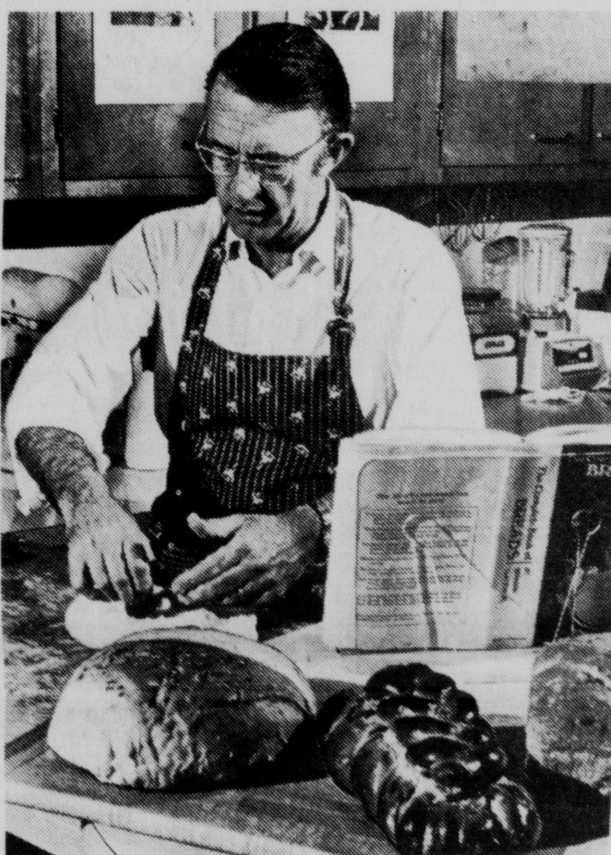

Because we had never before worked with gluten flour, we turned to our favorite all-round yeast-baking helper: "The Complete Book of Breads" by Bernard Clayton, Jr. Sure enough, Clayton has a recipe for Gluten Bread and the loaf we baked, following his ample directions, was perfect. With Bernie's kind permission, we are happy to pass along his recipe.

After sampling our loaf, we sliced it thin, buttered it copiously and toasted it in a slow oven until it was hard and crunchy. Stored in a tightly covered tin box in a cool place, the toast stayed in excellent condition for several weeks and the munchers at our house thoroughly enjoyed it.

In introducing his recipe, Clayton says: "While gluten bread is a dietetic loaf, a toasted slice has a crisp bite and a pleasant nutlike flavor. The flour is expensive ... (the loaf) will probably be reserved for special diets."

BERNIE CLAYTON'S GLUTEN BREAD
2½ to 3 cups gluten flour,
1½ teaspoons sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
1-3rd cup non-fat dry milk
1½ cups warm water
(105-115 degrees)

Into a large bowl pour 1½ cups flour, yeast, sugar, salt and milk. Stir together. Add water and vegetable oil. Beat with a wooden spoon 1 minute or 100 strokes. Unlike other yeast doughs, gluten dough will immediately pull together in a ball and quickly clean the sides of the bowl. Gradually add flour, a tablespoon at a time, until the dough loses its wetness and can be worked without sticking to the hands.

Turn onto a board or counter top lightly dusted with gluten flour. Knead with a strong push-turn-fold motion for about 8 minutes. While the dough will be fairly stiff, it will become smooth and elastic under the hands.

Place the dough in a greased bowl, cover with plastic wrap and put in a warm place (80-85 degrees) until dough has doubled in bulk, 1½ hours.

Punch down the dough in the bowl. Turn it out on the work surface and knead for 30 seconds to work out the bubbles. Press the ball of dough into a flat oval, about the length of the baking pan. Fold the oval in half, pinch the seam tightly to seal, tuck the ends, and place in an 8½ by 4½-inch greased loaf pan, seam down.

Place the pan in the warm place, cover with wax paper and leave until the center of the dough has risen to the edge of the pan, 1 hour.

Place in a preheated 400-degree oven 25 minutes, reduce heat to 350 degrees for an additional 20 minutes. Halfway through the bake period turn the pan. Loaf is done when it makes a hollow sound when thumped on the bottom.

Take from oven and place on cooling rack. If this is to be the bread supplement for only one person in the household, you may wish to slice just enough for three days, wrap and store; freeze the balance.

Dress at White House is "casual"

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ruffled corduroys are okay; ties are optional. The new look in the White House is comfortable. Some might call it sloppy.

There's an air of casual slapdash as aides in the Carter administration breeze through the plush corridors jacketless, often wearing khaki pants and turtlenecks rather than the three-piece suits popular during the Ford administration.

"This is the way most of us have been all along," says Gerald Rafshoon, a White House media consultant who was sporting a turtleneck. "People who wore coats and ties continue to do so. Those who were slobs continue to be slobs."

"Jimmy never imposed a dress code on us. We're a pretty loose, irreverent group," said Rafshoon, who directed Carter's advertising during the presidential campaign. "People are always casual around Jimmy. He's oblivious to the superficiality of dress."

White House press secretary Jody Powell says that while Carter's aides don't dress down on purpose, their sartorial informality may convey a message to the American people.

"It may make us more approachable," said Powell, who rarely wears all three pieces of his suits at once. He sat at his desk during an interview with his vest unbuttoned, tie loose and feet propped up.

"For the most part, I think people here are not making any effort to be different than they are," he said. "One message is that for Carter, clothes aren't part of the trappings of formality and power. They aren't important."

Powell said Carter's decision to wear a sweater rather than a jacket for his first fireside chat was a conscious one. Carter realizes that clothes have an impact on the public's perception of him, Powell said.

"Looks are part of it. If you know looks are a part of it, you make a choice The choice you make shows what you are about," Powell explained.

Pat Caddell, 27, Carter's pollster, said the new White House staffers may push less formally than those in previous administrations, but the Carterites look a lot better than they did during the campaign.

"If anything, people are trying to look respectable. But they're succeeding miserably," he said.

Pallbearers will be Pat Moriarty, Walter Hinkle, Joe LaBille, Earl Lashley, Lorenz Viebrock and Bob Huffman.

Burial will be in Crown Hill Cemetery.

The body is at the funeral home.

Appeal filed in case given a $1 judgment

After being denied a new trial in Pettis County over a $1 judgment awarded to him for a spinal fracture and whiplash allegedly sustained in an automobile accident, Jimmie R. Homan has filed an appeal with the Missouri Court of Appeals in Kansas City.

On Dec. 10 a Pettis County jury reached a verdict favoring Homan and awarded him $1 for his alleged injuries. The suit was heard here on a change of venue from Henry County.

Homan filed the suit there on Aug. 29, 1975, following a two-car accident between his auto and that of George C. Stiles, Windsor, on Highway 52 in Windsor on Aug. 7, 1971.

Originally, Homan sought a $100,000 judgment against Stiles for the injuries he allegedly sustained when Stiles car rear-ended Homan's while he was stopped, waiting to make a left turn.

Calling the jury's verdict "manifestly unjust...and a miscarriage of justice," Homan filed a motion for a new trial on Dec. 15. That motion was overruled Feb. 4 by Circuit Judge Robert C. Russell, who was assigned to hear the case here.

The Pettis County Circuit Clerk's office received notice Monday that Homan has appealed the case to the Kansas City District appeals court.

warehouse they took up positions in nearby buildings. At 10 a.m., a steel-gray, armored personnel carrier from the New York Police Dept. arrived at the scene and moved near the warehouse.

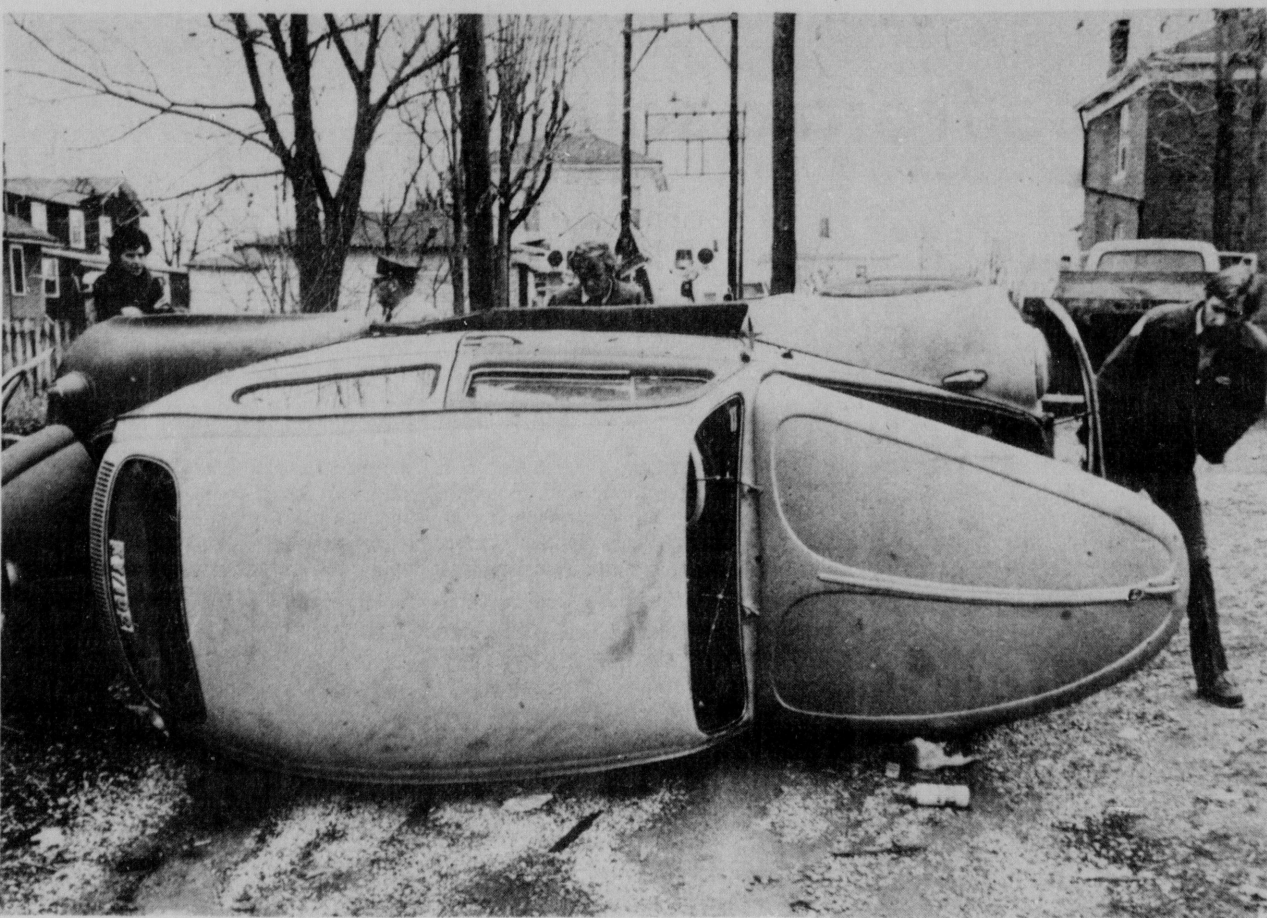

A company employee who had escaped said at least two employees of the moving company had been shot inside the building.

Clint Wynant, the employee, said the gunman shot the two persons in the chest. "He got them point blank," Wynant said. "They weren't moving. They looked dead."

Wynant said the gunman walked into the warehouse just before 8 a.m. "He just started shooting and everybody started running all over the place. He walked in and everybody started screaming and running. It was just mayhem."

William Marshall, another employee who escaped, said the gunman wounded one person with his first shot.

"I hit the floor," Marshall said. He said that as the gunman continued shooting, employees ran out the back door of the warehouse.

Black Monday

As if Mondays aren't bad enough, Mark Epstein's problems were a little more complicated as vandals pushed his car from his backyard and turned it over in the alley behind his home at 306 East Second. The car received only minor damage and was broken down anyway. However, Epstein's mother had to pay for a towtruck to right the car and push it back into the yard.

At Mark Twain, teachers were scheduled to meet Monday afternoon to discuss the situation. Assistant superintendent of schools Dr. Earl Finley said at least two alternate steps could be taken if it is determined that the school cannot be reopened for an indefinite period of time until the gas fume problem is completely corrected. Mark Twain classes could be held in other sites around town, such as other schools and churches, or the school could remain closed with students having to make up classes later.

Finley emphasized that such a decision would have to be made by the school board, possibly at its meeting Tuesday night.

Sedalia men arraigned on charges

Three Sedalia men were arraigned in Magistrate Court Monday morning on felony charges stemming from two separate incidents occurring last week.

James C. Claxton, 18, also known as James C. Smith, and his brother, Melvin L. (Bo) Claxton, 17, both of 368 West Saline, were arraigned on first-degree robbery charges in connection with a purse-snatching incident.

The brothers allegedly stole the purses of Pauline Cooper, 42, 237 East Walnut, and Lucille Twenter, 65, 520 West Sixth, about 1:38 a.m. Wednesday as the women were getting into a car at 1201 East Third. Although Mrs. Cooper was struck in the head during the robbery, she was not seriously injured, according to police.

Both Claxtons remain in the county jail in lieu of $10,000 bond each, pending their preliminary hearing on Feb. 24.

Arthur Eugene Crum, 20, 1203 South Ohio, was arraigned on felony charges of tampering with a motor vehicle in connection with an incident early Friday morning at the home of Melvin L. Becker, 1016 South Harrison.

Becker reportedly caught Crum, one of two men attempting to steal a tachometer from his car, and held him in his front yard until police arrived. Becker was alerted when the thieves bumped the car horn. Police are still searching for the second man.

Crum remains in the county jail in lieu of $5,000 bond, pending his preliminary hearing on Feb. 24.

Both Claxtons and Crum have prior felony convictions in Pettis County. The Claxton brothers were two of four men charged in connection with the Dec. 19, 1975 theft of 20 cases of beer from a Missouri Pacific Railroad boxcar in Sedalia. Crum was convicted of second-degree burglary and stealing in connection with a Jan. 21, 1976, burglary and theft at the Virginia Flower Child Development and Rehabilitation Center, 600 East 14th.

$300 in cash and other items taken in thefts

About $300 in cash was stolen from the offices of A.B.M. Industries, 415 North Marshall, overnight Friday, police reported Monday.

A window was broken in the business' front door and the door was opened to enter the building sometime between 4 p.m. Friday and 4 a.m. Saturday. No further details of the burglary were released by police.

In other police news:

— Millard Abel, 101 East Chestnut, reported the theft of $484 in items from his truck, parked at the Thompson Hills Shopping Center, about 7 p.m. Friday. Taken were two citizens band radios, a pair of binoculars, tools and several other items.

— Another CB was stolen from a car owned by Mike Robertson, Windsor, while it was parked at 2437 Greenwood Friday night. The radio was valued at $150.

— It is not known if anything was taken from a warehouse at Fumell Construction Co., 3905 South Limit, when it was broken into Saturday night. However, an inventory report to show any missing items will be sent to police.

— A tape player, valued at $100, was stolen from a car belonging to Jim Chancellor, 1710 South Brown, overnight

Woman is held after stabbing her brother

VERSAILLES — A Stover woman was arraigned in Morgan County Magistrate Court here Monday morning on felony charges of assault with intent to do great bodily harm in connection with the Saturday night stabbing of her brother at a Stover tavern.

Mrs. Ruth Ann Crawford, 26, is charged with stabbing her brother, Robert Lee Lindsey, 21, Stover, after he attempted to intercede in a domestic quarrel between Mrs. Crawford and her husband, Cecil Donnell Crawford, according to a spokesman for the Morgan County sheriff's department.

Mrs. Crawford apparently threatened her husband with a butcher knife, according to the spokesman, and Lindsey was stabbed in the abdomen when he attempted to intercede. The incident took place shortly before 9 p.m. Saturday in the Care Less tavern in Stover.

Lindsey was listed in good condition at Bothwell Hospital in Sedalia Monday morning. He underwent surgery for about two hours late Saturday night for the stab wound, which damaged his liver, according to a hospital spokesman.

Mrs. Crawford remains in the Morgan County jail here in lieu of $3,000 bond, pending her preliminary hearing on Feb. 22.

Britain's back."

The president said earlier Sunday that he believed Young's remarks were taken out of context and that he did not think "Andy said it in a critical way."

Carter returned to Washington early from his weekend visit to Plains in order to meet for an hour with Young, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski.

A spokesman provided no details, but said the U.N. ambassador gave a "full report" on his African trip.

Carter then met for a half-hour more with Vance and Brzezinski.

Vance leaves tonight on a fact-finding mission to the Middle East.

Although neither government announced a formal agenda, Carter and Lopez Portillo were expected to discuss such issues as trade, illegal aliens, prisoners and tourism.

Carter was playing his role as commander-in-chief over the weekend when he flew to Georgia and back aboard an Air Force jumbo jet that would be the aerial command post in case of nuclear attack.

He said he tried to save money on Friday by traveling by car from Warner Robins AFB near Macon, Ga., where he landed, to Plains, a distance of 70 miles.

FOOD & FIBER NEWS

University of Missouri Extension Centers
Henry - Johnson - Lafayette - Pettis

The year 1976 was a good one for most hog producers. Prices were good most of the year while feed cost remained relatively stable. These and other factors point toward lower hog prices.

I won't try to predict what the hog price level will be. I do think, however, that conditions point to a profit pinch this year. Perhaps we should look a little closer at the hog business to see what we can do to relieve some of the pain of the pinch, if, in fact, it does come.

Feed costs equal 70 per cent of the total cost of production and 76 per cent of the variable cost. Logic would then tell us that this is the area of greatest opportunity to reduce cost of production. We certainly don't want to cheat on nutrition and palatability of the ration, but we may be able to reduce cost by changing some ingredients or the amount of different ingredients and by shopping for additives used.

You have available, through your University of Missouri Extension Center, the services of a computer to formulate a least cost, balanced, nutritious, and palatable ration. This service could save literally hundreds of dollars on your annual feed bill. If you are interested in learning more about it, contact any Extension Center.

Beef outlook

Beef cattle profits continue to be one of the most troublesome spots in agriculture. We probably are beginning a period of increasing prices for beef. It is not likely that price rises will be fast or great, so we will have a period of little or no profit. As profit potential increases, beef producers tend to increase the breeding herd to the point that beef numbers cause another period of very low, or no profit prices.

Perhaps we as beef producers ought to consider keeping the breeding herd at a level that we can maintain on very little harvested feed during the winter months. This not only results in less loss during low price years, but may tend to hold prices at a higher level by keeping numbers down. Vic Jacobs, UMC, states the entire industry bears a cost in lower prices every year whenever any segment errs toward overstocking.

In his analysis of the beef situation, Jacobs makes another statement I think we should give thoughtful consideration. Other cost of a 20 per cent addition to the herd may go up far more than 20 per cent because of adverse "whole herd" effects. The direct forage cost per added cow may be 1 1/2 tons of hay at $45 per ton plus eight months of pasture at $5 per cow month for a total of $100 per cow. Unfortunately, that is not the real increase in forage costs caused by each additional cow. Twenty per cent more cows on the same pasture must result in a fixed pasture supply being exhausted sooner. The real addition to the forage cost is the increase in cost of the whole herd brought about by the 20 per cent cow addition.

While each additional cow appears to consume only $100 of forage directly, they would, in fact, be responsible for an increase in forage cost of $157 per added cow.

Farming strategies

How to make farm decisions today in our time of uncertainty on the farm will be discussed at a meeting of farmers of this area Thursday at the Elks Club in Warrensburg.

This meeting will explore key factors affecting agriculture today. Lead-off speaker will cover the major factors in the farm picture, such as weather, exports, government action and inflation. Presenting this background will be Norlin Hein, UMC Extension economist.

Price prospects will be discussed by Glenn Grimes, UMC marketing specialist. After these two background setting talks, UMC Farm Management Specialist Herman Workman will discuss a key topic on guidelines for decision making in years ahead.

After lunch, the conference will break into three groups to discuss marketing and management of beef, hogs, and cash grain enterprises. Then three local farmers will serve on a panel to report how they are making decisions for the years ahead. The farmers are Dennis Schneider, Corder; Robert Angle, Clinton; and Leo Strobel, Concordia. The meeting will end by 3:30 p.m.

Supply and costs

Fertilizer supplies are good and prices are not expected to rise, says Hein. In general, fertilizer production capacity is up from a year ago and relatively large inventories are on hand.

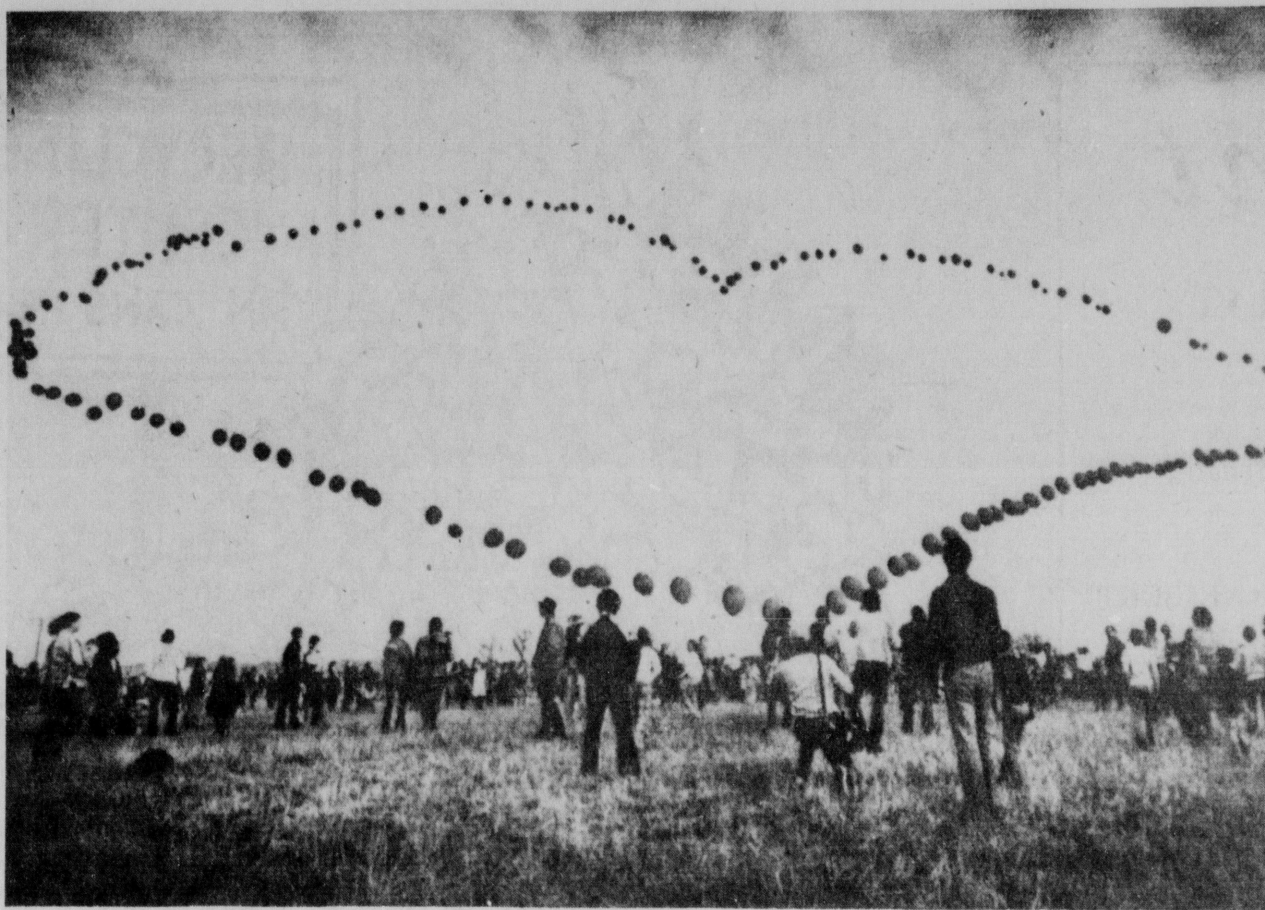

In the case of nitrogen, for example, U.S. anhydrous ammonia production capacity has increased about one million tons each year for the past two years. The production capacity for urea, ammonium nitrate and diamine phosphate is up about 9 to 15 per cent over last year.

Prices for nitrogen fertilizers are expected to be steady to slightly lower than last year. However, uncertainties in the natural gas industry could alter this picture. The natural gas rates could be hiked. As some producers find themselves paying more for natural gas, the cost and price squeeze might force shut-downs of their plants and thereby a reduction in the ammonia capacity.

In the case of phosphorous supplies both phosphate rock and phosphate fertilizer are plentiful.

Currently, the industry is trying to work off accumulated inventories. With supplies abundant and prices of phosphate fertilizer down sharply, production is slow and some phosphoric acid facilities have shut down.

The potassium situation looks good, and prices should hold for the coming year. The U.S. imports about 75 per cent of its potash from Canada and the government there is assuming control of the potash produced. This is creating uncertainty in future potash situations. Manufacturers are seeking new domestic sources and are considering importing more potash from other world producers.

Congress moving ahead on problems of drought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Momentum is building in Congress for some sort of major governmental action to deal with the problems of continued drought in the American West.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., has urged Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland to order a study of the impact of heavy snow and frigid winds in the Midwest and East and lack of water-producing snowpacks in the West.

At the same time, 20 House members from the Northwest, northern Great Plains and Rocky Mountain states wrote President Carter to urge immediate disaster relief plans, full assessments of crop damage and of power shortages in areas depending on water-generated electricity.

The Fertilizer Institute, meeting in Chicago, said this spring could bring a "logistical nightmare" to the industry and to farmers who need its products, because of reduced natural-gas supplies and tied-up transportation networks.

The National Farmers Union cautioned its members not to over-react to weather-disrupted markets in making their planting and shipping decisions and thus hurt themselves on prices even more.

And Rep. Al Baldus, D-Wis., introduced legislation that would direct Bergland to set up a drought-predicting system for the future — a weather-monitoring system Bergland has already said he hopes to make the hallmark of his USDA tenure.

All those groups and persons will be involved in drafting the omnibus farm-program legislation that must be reported before May 15 by the House and Senate agriculture committees.

Almost a month of hearings on what the various elements of the farm and food industries want in that legislation begins this Thursday in the House committee and next week in the Senate.

Bergland, who has said he definitely wants a major overhaul of farm-disaster programs included, will present the Carter administration comments and proposals in mid-March.

While his economists continue work this week on farm-program ideas, he said Friday that he will be working on a "new design for the food stamp program," which also expires Sept. 30.

He said he was not ready to be precise about that design. But he did say he wants to simplify a program "that's so complicated it's mind-boggling."

Rural aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 100-member Congressional Rural Caucus of House and Senate members is trying to get President Carter's backing for a $16-million economic assistance plan for rural areas.

Rep. John Breckinridge, D-Ky., the caucus chairman, said the package would boost the loan levels of Farmers Home Administration programs by $15.9 billion and its grant programs by $557 million.

"What we are really talking about is providing hundreds of thousands of jobs in the construction of needed community water and waste disposal facilities, new farm and non-farm enterprises, the practical renovation and new construction of housing and, above all, the financial assistance to keep rural America's farm and nonfarm enterprises from bankruptcy," Breckinridge said.

'Problem herd'

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you see a cow walking around with "AV" branded on her right jaw, she's part of a "problem herd" in which normal procedures for wiping out brucellosis have failed, the Agriculture Department says.

Adult female cattle in those herds now can be vaccinated with a serum called Strain 19, formerly reserved for calves, under guidelines approved by USDA last week. Such animals can move away from their home farm only under permit, to slaughter or a quarantined feedlot.

Brucellosis, or Bang's disease, is highly contagious, causing abortions in livestock, drops in dairy milk production and breeding problems. It is sometimes passed to humans who work around infected livestock, and called undulant fever.

There were eight George Washingtons in the 53rd Congress of 1893. They were George Washington Smith, Fithian, Ray, Houk, Hulick, Wilson, Shell and Murray.

Shootings in St. Louis may be connected

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — Weekend shootings in the St. Louis suburbs of Bridgeton and Maryland Heights may be related, according to police.

Steven Collins, 19, a delivery truck driver, and his wife, Terrie, 18, were shot Saturday night as they stood with their 2-month-old son on the front porch of their Bridgeton home.

Collins was killed and his wife was reported in serious condition at Christian Hospital Northeast Sunday night.

About 20 minutes before that shooting, Diane Freeland, 38, was wounded by two shots as she stood in front of a picture window in her Maryland Heights home. She was in intensive care at St. John's Mercy Medical Center.

St. Louis County Det. John McGrady said the lack of information in the shootings led him to believe they were connected.

The shootings were only a few miles apart, he said, and the weapon in both cases apparently was a small caliber gun.

Military prisoner remains at large

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) — An Air Force prisoner who walked away from the parolee unit of the U.S. Disciplinary Barracks at Ft. Leavenworth remained at large Sunday night.

Charles Young, 27, of New York, disappeared Saturday morning after returning to the parolee unit following an examination at Munson Army Hospital.

Farmer wins ag award

PILOT GROVE — Stanley Deuschle, a farmer in this area, has won the Missouri Project: 10,000 sorghum growing program with his irrigated yield of 5,004.4 pounds per acre.

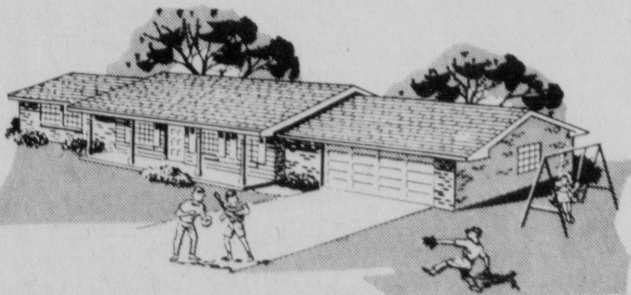

Deuschle was participating in the annual project sponsored by Funk's G-Hybrids.

Planting 30.6 acres of Funk's G-522 sorghum on May 10 at the rate of 4 pounds per acre in 38-inch rows, Deuschle fertilized with 90 pounds nitrogen, 40 pounds phosphorous and 60 pounds potash. He used AATrex for weed control. His official yield was adjusted to 14 per cent moisture when harvested on Oct. 18.

A Chillicothe farmer, Bob Smith, was a national winner in the project with a yield of 9,251.3 pounds per acre in the non-irrigation division.

Did You Know?

Standards are essential to the official Federal and Federal-State grading and market news services, but they are also the guidelines in virtually all buying and selling. Without this universally understood language of official grade standards, trade by description across this Nation would be difficult and much less precise.

If you are a producer who would like to get a higher price for your better hogs —

If you are a meat packer who would like to be able to buy hogs on the basis of their true worth —

If you are a retailer who would like to be able to buy pork from your suppliers with more precision — and sell more to your customers —

If you are a consumer who would like to get meatier pork cuts —

Then U.S. Department of Agriculture grades for slaughter swine and feeder pigs can help you.

Grades for slaughter swine and feeder pigs, like those for other farm products, provide a language for trading understood across the nation.

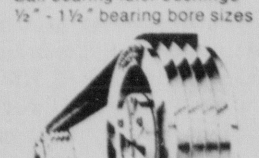

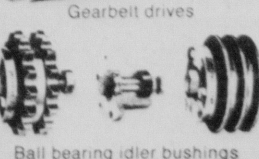

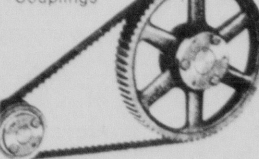

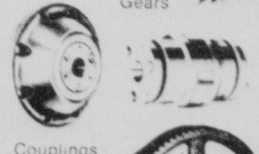

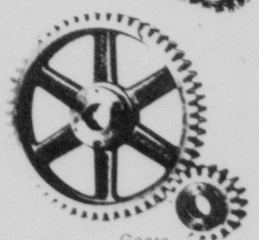

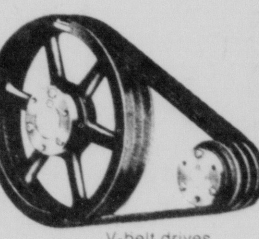

Standards for grades of slaughter swine and feeder pigs — again, like those for other farm products — are based on the attributes of the product that determine its value and utility. In terms of the pork they produce, that means the quality of the meat and the yield of the four lean cuts — hams, loins, picnic, and Boston butts.

"WE'RE INTERESTED IN AGRICULTURE. IT'S OUR FUTURE. TOO!!"

We easily forget they're only games

Before the United States turns to a central sports organization to oversee the development of amateur athletes, parents should ask themselves: Do we really want our children to be singled out at an early age and groomed to represent America in the Olympic Games?

Although the proposal is not that drastic at this point, the constant press for more medals in international sports competition could lead to the development of a society of athletic heroes whose only function is to play games.

Youth recreational leagues, with their pestering and bench-jockeying parents, already have diverted some happy childhoods away from the fun of playing games to a philosophy of "winning is the only thing."

Professional sports create enough of a vacuum in the sociological and psychological growth of collegiate athletes in football and basketball. Sometimes those able-bodied stars of yesteryear are a pitiful sight when their skills are depleted and their contracts are terminated.

A two-volume, 613-page report from the President's Commission on Olympic Sports (submitted last month) recommends sweeping changes to up-grade America's amateur sports system.

If the Amateur Athletic Association and U.S. Olympic Committee can be brought to a peaceful agreement that would strengthen the quality of American Olympic teams, then good. If, however, the goal is an organization for the development of national athletic teams, then the country is taking the Olympic Games much too seriously.

We recognize the antiquity of some amateur rules in this country and appreciate the need for ridding athletes of cumbersome obstacles to successful competition. The mechanics for a good Olympic team are already in existence if only some of the old "cogs" in charge would loosen up. (Kansas City Times)

Republicans feel publicity squeeze

By MARTHA ANGLE AND ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON (NEA) — With Democrats firmly in control of the White House and Capitol Hill, the Republican party is in danger of becoming invisible at the national level — a development which has GOP leaders fretting and fussing.

The result has been a virtual freeze-out of the "loyal opposition" at a time when Republican political fortunes are already at their nadir. With some justification, GOP leaders feel they are being slighted by the press.

Senate Minority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., House GOP Leader John J. Rhodes, R-Ariz., and former Sen. Bill Brock, R-Tenn., the new Republican national chairman, have joined forces to combat the indifference of the media.

Rhodes and his staff aides have privately complained to several reporters and at least one major newspaper editor that important policy statements by House Republicans are being virtually ignored. Baker says he will "scream to high heaven" if press coverage of GOP positions doesn't pick up soon.

And the congressional leaders plus Brock are scheduled to sit down within the next few weeks with officials of the three major television networks — CBS, NBC and ABC — to plead for guarantees that the GOP will have a reasonable opportunity to respond to President Carter's fireside chats and other televised reports to the American people.

When Carter's first fireside chat was announced, Brock fired off telegrams to all three networks requesting equal time. He didn't get it, but he was invited to appear on NBC's "Today Show" and ABC's "A.M. America" the morning after the President's address.

"I think the networks are sensitive to the fairness question," Brock told us. "The fireside chat approach is so subject to abuse that I think they are going to bend over backwards to avoid problems."

"We're prepared to go to the FCC (Federal Communications Commission) if necessary, but I believe something can be worked out amicably."

A spokesman for Rhodes said Republicans have fared better on television than they have in daily news coverage by print journalists.

"Because we are a minority and a badly reduced one at that, it is patently obvious to the press that whatever we want is not going to happen because we don't have the votes."

"Therefore, what we do or say apparently isn't news. To us, that's a potentially insidious type of bias even though it's quite unintentional," the Rhodes aide said.

Rhodes & Co. may be stewing prematurely. Because the Carter administration is still in its formative phase and because the President himself remains an enigma to much of the public, the press is indeed temporarily mesmerized by the ruling majority.

The real test, as Baker told us, will come two or three months from now when the shine is off the apple and the administration gets down to specific legislative proposals and executive decisions.

"We want to make sure the country gets a glimpse of what the alternatives to Democratic programs might be. If we're frozen out of the news, we're going to be in very bad shape indeed," he said.

"Let's build a supertanker."

Merry-go-round

Oil companies are in for attention

By JACK ANDERSON
and LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — Congress is bringing quiet pressure on Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell to crack down on companies that may be withholding vital gas from the market. This would be a dramatic departure from the Administration's hands-off policy toward the oil and gas companies during the Nixon-Ford years.

The Federal Power Commission, for example, ignored the call of an administrative law judge for "criminal action" against Gulf Oil. He found evidence of a "conspiracy" to withhold gas and, thereby to drive up prices "in violation of federal antitrust laws."

The Justice Department has also been sitting on evidence that two gas companies lied about their ability to deliver gas during the 1974-75 winter. Factories from Alabama to New Jersey were threatened with shutdowns.

Now that the nation has been caught in an icy grip and the worst fears of 1974-75 have materialized, investigators have charged that gas companies may be holding back gas to force an end to all price controls.

That indefatigable congressional watchdog, Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., is pushing the Carter administration to prosecute the corporate offenders. This would set an example, he believes the flow of natural gas.

The Gulf case is complex. But essentially, Gulf contracted to supply gas to Texas Eastern, a giant pipeline company, which delivers gas to 16 states from Texas to New York. Beginning in 1971, Gulf began cutting back the flow in defiance of the contract.

Yet at the same time, Gulf seemed to have plenty of gas to sell other customers at higher prices. Investigators claimed this was a squeeze play to push up prices. They also found out that Gulf has been dilatory about producing the gas from its leases. Thus the gas has remained securely in the ground while the price has been shooting up.

None of this seemed to disturb Texas Eastern, which merely purchased more expensive supplementary gas and passed on the cost to the consumers in the form of higher rates. Indeed, Texas Eastern was so indifferent about Gulf's breach of contract that the administrative law judge suggested the two companies had conspired together "to withhold gas from the interstate market until the price has been driven up."

Another alleged corporate culprit, the Mitchell Energy Corporation, contracted to supply gas to the Northeast from its offshore reserves along the Louisiana coast. Its wells were supposed to start pumping gas into the pipeline in September, 1974.

But curiously, the offshore platform didn't get completed throughout the cold winter, and the gas didn't start flowing until the following June. In the meantime, of course, the price had moved up.

The company was called on the carpet over the mysterious delay. Testifying under oath, the corporate vice president, Sidney T. Walker, swore to the Federal Power Commission that the hold-up had been caused by bad weather. The FPC has evidence, however, that Mitchell caused the delays by insisting on numerous technical revisions.

This happens to be documented in a series of letters between Mitchell and its equipment contractor, J.R. McDermott and Company. Yet Walker testified that there were no written records.

His testimony came at a time when

FPC investigators were frantically trying to find why more gas wasn't being produced. Complained House Commerce Chairman Harley Staggers, D-W. Va., in a confidential letter to then-Atty. Gen. Edward Levi:

"Mr. Walker thwarted the legitimate efforts of the FPC to determine the facts contributing to ... the severe natural gas curtailments during the critical 1974-75 heating season." Staggers was incredulous that the Justice Department never prosecuted Walker. "Any individual of average intelligence would conclude that Mr. Walker perjured himself," fumed the congressman.

Still another company, Cities Service, misled the FPC about its offshore wells near Texas. As early as January, 1974, the company discovered that its drilling rigs and tubing were corroding. Yet repair work didn't begin until September, cutting off the flow of gas for most of the winter months.

Cities Service executives told the FPC they made "a total commitment of manpower" but couldn't find the right equipment to fix their rigs any faster. But investigators told us the company used only one employee, who failed to contact several nearby companies that could have completed the repairs. In fact, Cities Service turned down one unsolicited offer from a repair company.

Shell Oil has also cited technical excuses for holding back the flow of gas from its tremendous reserves.

Investigators suspect that similar tactics may be responsible, in part, for this winter's vanishing gas supplies. The emergency has now forced President Jimmy Carter to temporarily lift the lid on price controls. Apparently, this is what the gas companies have been waiting for.

Footnote: A Gulf Oil spokesman "categorically denied" that the company had violated the law and blamed the government for the curtailment. By holding up leases, he explained, the government left Gulf short of natural gas to meet its commitments.

A spokesman for Mitchell said the company encountered legitimate delays in its efforts to finish its platform. But he conceded that Walker inadvertently made some errors in his testimony. A Cities Service spokesman said a shortage of pipe and other problems caused unavoidable delays.

Give the cars back, Mr. Carter

Dear President Carter:
WASHINGTON — Since becoming President you have engaged in a lot of symbolism designed to convince the American people that you are going to be a frugal, wise, warm and compassionate leader.

Rowan

great magnitude.

I do feel, however, that some of your symbolic gestures and decrees are contradictory and will wind up not serving the public interest.

Item: You cautioned your cabinet members the other day against working so hard that they neglect their health and their families. "You'll be so much more useful to me and the country if you have some recreation, get some exercise, see your children and your spouses," you told them.

I applaud this. One reason government is so big and the paperwork so stupidly staggering is that cabinet officers and agency heads fear a telephone call from their President on Saturdays and Sundays — only to find them on the tennis courts or the golf course. When these top officials stay chained to their offices, their deputies and assistants cling to their offices out of the same fear of being called. This is when they make tired decisions, write stupid memos, dream up needless projects and pick fights with each other.

This leads me to one of your glaring contradictions, Mr. President. You have taken away the chauffeured cars of many White House aides and have urged other departments and agencies to do the same. This is supposed to signal the end of "the imperial presidency" and convince the American people that you are going to spend their money sparingly.

Trouble is, the people whose government cars you've taken away normally work 10, even 14, hours a day. It is de rigueur that they show up at endless embassy receptions and dinners and other social functions which are virtually part of their jobs.

How, on the one hand, do you add hours and gross difficulty to their travel time and at the same time admonish them to spend more time with their families?

As one who has gone the route of public service, and who knows what it means to leave home before children go off to school and return home long after they've had dinner, it seems to me that this little perquisite of transportation is more than deserved by your top aides.

I find it particularly galling when I know that the money saved, if any, is trifling in raw figures — and of no consequence whatever when set against the colossal daily waste in any number of federal programs.

I remember that, when I was USIA director, President Johnson not only was turning off White House lights, but he decreed that agency heads could drive Buicks, not Cadillacs, Chrysler New Yorkers, not Imperials, Mercurys, not Continentals. Trouble was, the smaller cars cost the public more because the auto manufacturers gave better deals on their top-line cars just to have them ridden in by agency heads.

But it was obvious that the actual "savings" to the public didn't matter; the public relations aspect was its own justification.

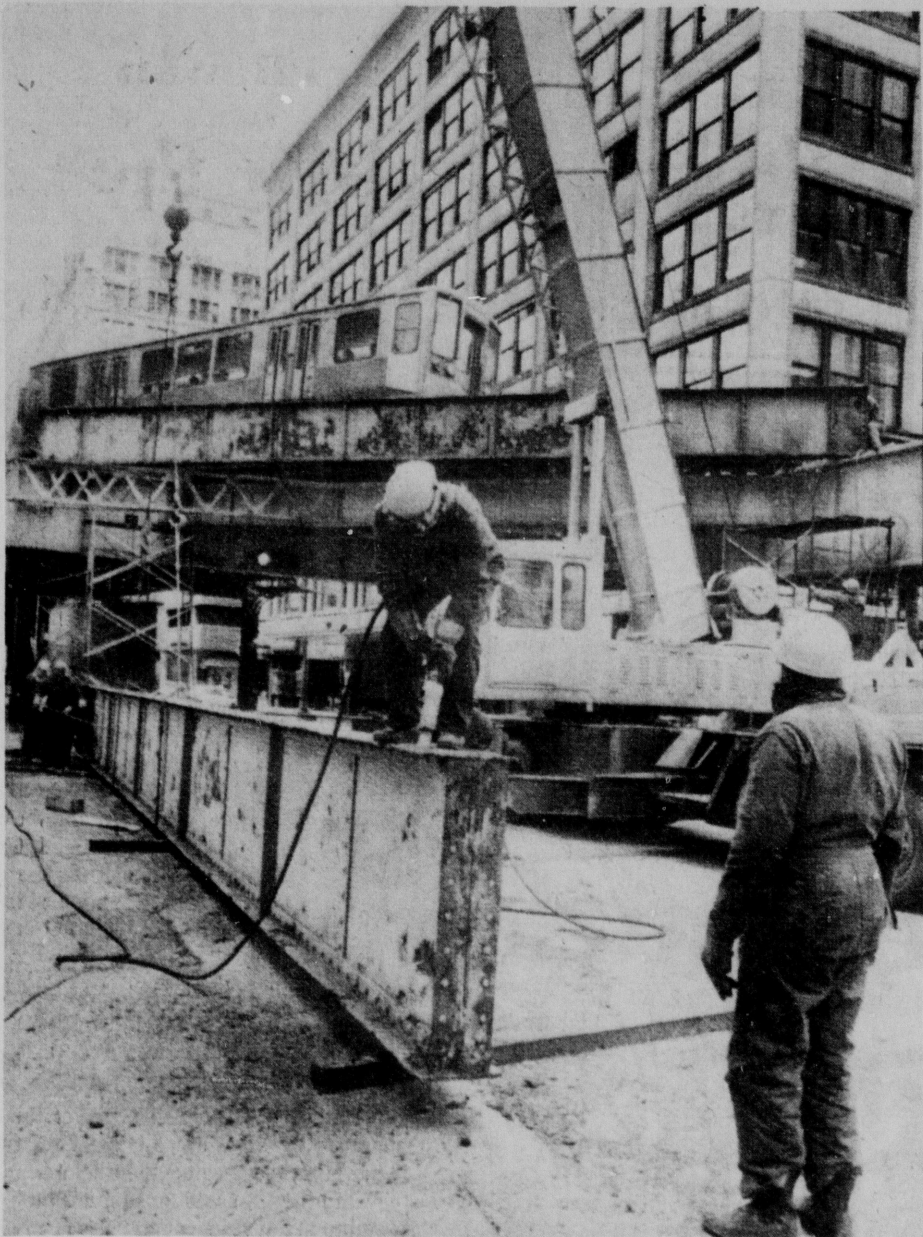

Many Americans are misled into believing that you've taken "limousines" away from your top aides when in fact you've stripped away a batch of compacts. Again, the symbol dwarfs the saving.

Americans don't want their public officials luxuriating at the public trough. But it is absurd to ask your national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski, for example, to sweat over Rhodesia and the Middle East for 12 hours and then have to thumb a taxi on Pennsylvania Avenue to try to get to Mrs. Flossie's dinner before the dessert course.

Most of us would rather buy a few more hub caps and gallons of gasoline than risk having tired people doing critical business.

Preventative maintenance

Chicago workmen put the finishing touches on the second section of a 12-ton, 55-foot barrier wall which will act as a restrainer in the event of another commuter train crash like the one which killed 11 persons and injured nearly 200 more Feb. 4. That accident happened when two elevated trains collided during the rush hour in Chicago's famous downtown "loop." Four cars derailed with one dropping into the street at the curve and two others were left hanging from the structure.

Airlines have slashed fuel use since embargo

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's scheduled airlines have cut fuel consumption by almost 7½ per cent in the three years since the 1973 Arab oil embargo, despite more than a 10 per cent increase in passengers, the Air Transport Association reports.

The industry group said Sunday that the savings was accomplished with such conservation methods as slowing the speed of a DC8 by only 14 miles an hour, from 544 miles an hour to 530 mph.

That added four minutes to the flight time from Chicago to Los Angeles, for example, but saved 164 gallons of fuel.

The airlines last year used 9.9 billion gallons of fuel — less than four per cent of the petroleum consumed in the nation — compared to 10.7 billion in 1973, the report said. During the same period, the number of passengers increased from 202 million to 223 million.

Nine persons die on roads over weekend

By The Associated Press
Nine persons, including a city council member from Jefferson City, died in traffic accidents in Missouri over the weekend.

James Barry, 32, the councilman, died Saturday in a one-car accident on Missouri 133 south of Meta.

Carroll John Brown, 56, Kansas City, died Saturday in an accident on U.S. 71 two miles south of Belton.

Robert Barber, 45, Essex, died Saturday night in a one-car accident on Missouri 11 four miles east of Essex.

Owen Watson, 69, of Callao, died Saturday night when he was struck by a car while walking along U.S. 36 in Macon County.

Kathleen Irish, 30, Blandinsville, Ill., and Gordon Thompson, 29, Wayland, died Saturday in a car-truck accident on U.S. 61 north of Canton.

Kenneth M. VannWey, 23, and Kathy Cornell, 27, both of Carthage, died Friday night in a one-car crash in Carthage.

Ruth Mae Wengle, 56, Fredericktown, died Friday when she was struck and run over by a car in Fredericktown.

Pathologist a man of thousand hearts

CHICAGO (AP) — Dr. Maurice Lev is a man with a thousand hearts.

The 68-year-old pathologist has more than 1,000 human hearts in glass jars at his Hektoen Institute. And he has distributed an additional 4,000 hearts to various medical centers to help train heart surgeons and to aid researchers.

Authorities say Lev has the world's largest collection of hearts with congenital defects. These are hearts with birth defects — misshapen valves, holes in the walls, missing parts, misplaced vessels and a wide range of other abnormalities.

The hearts come mostly from Chicago area hospitals. When a baby dies from a congenital heart defect and an autopsy is performed, the heart is sent to Lev, who does a complete study and then reports his findings to the hospital.

Every year between 100 and 200 heart surgeons from the United States and other countries visit Lev's laboratory to read his reports and study his collection.

"They often come here if they are going to perform a tricky repair operation to study hearts with similar defects. Then they'll know exactly what to look for and what to do," said Lev, who started his collection and work in the mid 1930s.

In those days, 90 per cent of the infants born with the most common heart defects died. Today, 80 per cent live.

"A lot of credit for the success in surgically correcting congenital heart defects goes to Dr. Lev," says Dr. Rolf Gunnar, chief of cardiology at Loyola University's Stritch School of Medicine and president of the Chicago Heart Association. "Without him we couldn't have gotten as far."

Closer food control urged by study group

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government should control the supply of food crops more closely to protect the grocery budgets of low- and middle-income families, a research group says.

The Exploratory Project for Economic Alternatives said Sunday, "If we are ever going to make progress in reducing unemployment, it is necessary to make a direct attack on the sources of inflation, and food inflation is one of the major sources of the problem."

The project's report also said the government should stabilize the incomes of small- and medium-sized farmers with subsidies.

The report called for expansion of the government's supply-management system, "emphasizing production to satisfy domestic demand, creating bigger stocks and emergency reserves, extending government control over agricultural trade and breaking up monopoly control of giant producers, processors and distributors."

The report predicts worsening food inflation, resource shortages and pollution. Consequently, it said, the United States "can no longer afford a narrowly based policy geared to supporting agribusiness at the expense of family farmers."

"The present system has led to ruinously unstable prices for over-processed, even dangerous food, to the disappearance of millions of family farms and the decline of rural life," authors Joe Belden and Gregg Forte said.

Protein needed for balanced diet

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am a woman in my mid 40s, in good health. Over the years I have become a little overweight and am planning on losing 15 pounds. I have found a lot of calorie charts but I am interested in protein as I want to eat the right amount to keep my health. Could you tell me how much protein I need a day and where I could get a protein chart to know how much I am getting?

Dear Reader — Women over 18 need 46 grams of protein a day, plus 30 grams if they are pregnant and plus 20 grams if nursing a baby. This is the Recommended Daily Dietary Allowance (RDA) for normal healthy people, which means it is more than the minimal requirement.

This amount of protein assumes you are getting enough calories in your diet to provide the energy you need each day. If you are using 2500 calories of energy a day and are eating a total of only 1500 calories and have no fat stores, then all that protein in your 1500 calorie diet would be used for energy and you would be protein deficient. In other words, there are two important requirements for protein — the actual grams of good quality protein in your diet and enough calories in your diet to be sure the protein is available for your body to use for building and replacement processes.

In your case, even if you are not taking in as many calories as you use, the protein in your diet can be used for building purposes. The rest of your daily calorie needs will be met by using up your body fat stores — which is what you want.

The kind of protein does matter. Proteins are made up of amino acids. The protein you eat must include sufficient amounts of the essential amino acids — those that cannot be manufactured in your body from other amino acids. For children there are 10 of these and eight for healthy adults. Two of the best sources of complete protein that will meet all these requirements are meats (red meats, fish, poultry) and milk.

As a general rule, there are 100 grams of good protein in a pound of lean, raw meat; the weight is for the edible portion only after fat, bone and non-muscular tissues are removed. That means if you eat a half pound of meat a day (flesh only of chicken, fish or red meat) you will meet your protein requirements while on your diet. An 8-ounce glass of milk will contain nine grams of protein and if it is fortified milk, 10 grams of protein.

(NEA).

Carter totes muzzleloader

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter brought back from Georgia on Sunday a handmade reproduction of a muzzleloader flintlock gun that he worried over during a helicopter flight.

"I would rather tote it myself than have it busted," the President said as he hand-carried the gun to his Air Force jet at Warner Robins AFB near Macon, Ga.

Press Secretary Jody Powell explained that Carter had been given the highly polished, walnut antique gun by the Georgia Department of Natural Resources. It was constructed by Jack Crockford, who makes guns as a hobby, Powell said.

Aboard the national emergency command plane, the President's gift gun was carefully handled by an airman.

Mizzou, K-State tied

Big Eight race moving into home stretch

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Big Eight basketball race is off and running again with less than two weeks left in regular season play.

The finish line most probably will be drawn across the brightly colored court of Hearn's Multipurpose Arena in Columbia, Mo., next Saturday when Kansas State and Missouri, tied at 8-3, meet on regional television.

If the teams both win Wednesday's games, the winner of Saturday's game is guaranteed a tie for the conference championship. Wednesday Kansas State hosts Oklahoma State while Missouri hosts Colorado.

Missouri, the defending champion, dropped into the tie Saturday with Kansas State by losing to Nebraska in Lincoln, 60-58, before the largest crowd in Nebraska basketball history. Kansas State slipped past Kansas, 86-83.

Oklahoma, now tied with Nebraska at 7-4, was ambushed by Colorado, 79-65, and Oklahoma State dumped Iowa State, 89-79.

Jim Kennedy, Missouri's 6-6 senior forward who had been averaging 12.2 points a game, suffered a severely sprained ankle late in the Nebraska game and was placed in a cast Sunday. A school spokesman said Kennedy was very doubtful for Missouri's game against Colorado Wednesday night.

"We're keeping it 'im-mobilized' in hopes that he'll be okay by Saturday," the spokesman said.

While the crowd of 14,273 screamed with delight, Curt Hedberg hit two free throws in the final seconds to seal Nebraska's victory. Brian Banks had hit a basket with 2:20 remaining to give the Huskers a lead they never relinquished. James Clabon scored for Missouri with five seconds remaining for the final score.

"It was a great crowd and enthusiasm, which strongly contributed to our win," said

Nebraska Coach Joe Cipriano. "We really needed this win to continue our chances for a top four finish in the league."

Nebraska, led by Bob Siegel's 18 points and Banks' 14, led at halftime, 33-30.

Kim Anderson, who led Missouri with 17 points, missed at the free throw line in the waning seconds with Nebraska leading, 58-56.

Curtis Redding, Kansas State's 6-7 freshman sensation who led all scorers with 34 points, popped in the 34th from the free throw line with 33 seconds to play to give the Wildcats an 84-83 lead.

Redding's fateful toss was the result of a mental lapse by Ken Keonigs of Kansas, who was whistled for a technical foul for calling time out when the Jayhawks had none left. Then Scott Langton, who scored five points in the last 65 seconds, capped the scoring with two more successful free throws.

Koenigs, 6-10 junior from Goddard, Kan., who played an outstanding game with 18 points and 15 rebounds, did not appear in the Jayhawk dressing room.

"I have been here 17 years and there is no man I have had greater admiration for than Ken Keonigs," said Ted Owens, Kansas coach. "If there is anyone to blame it on it's me."

Clint Johnson led the Jayhawks with 21 points while John Douglas had 19. Kansas spurred to 10-point leads twice early in the first half, but wound up tied with the Wildcats at intermission, 43-43, after Kansas State scored six unanswered points just before the buzzer.

The Jayhawks shot 53 per cent from the field and led in rebounds, but Kansas State played a nearly perfect game.

"A big factor in the game was that K-State turned the ball over only four times," said Owens. "They had second shots. They got the rebounds, and put them back in."

The understandably elated Jack Hartman, Kansas State coach, agreed that Langton and Redding had made superlative efforts but added, "I don't like to name names. It was a great team effort."

"I thought my kids showed great courage and character," he said. "An awful lot happened in the last few minutes."

Emmett Lewis, Colorado's outstanding sophomore guard, led the Buffs with 28 points, while Clayton Bullard had 13 and Toney Ellis 12. The Buffs took the lead for good with 16:25 left in the first half.

Al Beal, Oklahoma's freshman center, led the Sooners with 19 points. John McCullough had 16 and Cary Carrabine, 14.

Andrew Parker of Iowa State ripped in 26 points against the Cowboys, but did not get enough help from his teammates as Olus Holder got 23, Eli Johnson 20 and Ronnie Daniel 18 for the Cowboys.

This week's schedule: Wednesday: Kansas at Iowa State, Oklahoma State at Kansas State, Colorado at Missouri and Nebraska at Oklahoma.

Saturday: Iowa State at Oklahoma, Kansas State at Missouri, Oklahoma State at Colorado and Nebraska at Kansas.

Barton pleased despite 100-91 State Fair loss

KANSAS CITY — Coach Bill Barton called it one of his teams best performances of the year, but it wasn't enough to overcome Longview Community College, as the State Fair Community College Roadrunners went down to a 100-91 defeat Saturday here.

The Roadrunners led early in the game, but a five minute period before the half, when they could score no points, hurt.

Another thing that hurt was

LaMonte tourney gets under way

LaMONTE — Four games are scheduled tonight in the opening round of the LaMonte Junior High School Basketball Tournament.

At 5 p.m. Warsaw meets Smithton, followed by Green Ridge and Stover at 6:15. Sacred Heart and Lincoln play at 7:30, then Northwest and LaMonte complete the first night's games at 8:45.

Cole Camp, the only other team entered in the tournament drew a first round bye, and will play the Northwest-LaMonte winner Wednesday night.

The tournament will continue on Thursday night, and on Saturday the consolation final, third-place and championship games will be played.

the absence for much of the ballgame of James Sumlin. The big center picked up four fouls in the first half, and sat out nearly 20 minutes of the game.

Still he finished the night with 21 points, tops for State Fair.

Barton was enthusiastic about Sumlin's play. "It was one of his best performances. If he could play like that every game, then it would be hard to tell how great he could be."

Barton said he was pleased with the team as a whole, saying the game was played with "great intensity."

The Roadrunners hit 37 of 74 of their field goal tries for a 50 per cent average. Longview hit 41 of 78.

Longview outrebounded SFCC 40-32.

Tonight, the Roadrunners take on Haskell Indian Junior College from Lawrence, Kan. It is the Roadrunners last home game of the season.

Action starts at 7:30 p.m.

Scoring

State Fair (91) — James Sumlin 21, Greg Sewell 17, Pete Fiene 14, Leonard Dixon 12, Steve Davies 2, Gary Riechmann 4, Willie Williams 14, Tommy Buckner 7.

Longview (100) — William Louis 21, Kevin Eisenbeis 14, Glenn Wrap 8, Chuck Walker 12, Clayton Fleeman 14, Vincent Malone 31.

AAU considers Olympic report

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A spokesman for the Amateur Athletic Union said Sunday the organization would issue a statement "sometime this week" on the final report of the President's Commission on Olympic Sports.

The executive committee of the AAU met here over the weekend to discuss the voluminous report and cancelled a news conference which had been planned for Sunday.

"We're still putting our thoughts together," said Richard Harkins of Kansas City, national AAU secretary. "There are lots of criterion in the report and we're going back to dissect the report."

Harkins said the AAU would issue a statement later in Indianapolis.

Wes Ferrell pitched for six different major league teams and six times was a 20-game winner.

Indiana solves Michigan defense

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

If ever a college basketball team went to court without a defense, it's the Michigan Wolverines.

Coach Johnny Orr certainly found them guilty Sunday after a 73-64 upset by Indiana.

"They just ran their offense in the second half," a grim Orr said of Indiana. "I don't know how they got Woodson opened so often."

Orr referred to Mike Woodson, Indiana's freshman forward who flowed through the Wolverine defense with shocking ease and scored 26 points.

While fifth-ranked Michigan wasn't playing defense, Indiana was. The Hoosiers seemingly had stop signs up all over the court and the traffic was terrific.

"We concentrated all week on defense," said Indiana Coach Bobby Knight. "We thought we had given up some easy baskets last week (in an 89-84 loss at Michigan) before we set up. We told our kids this week that our defense started when the shot went up."

Indiana's overbearing defense got Kent Benson into foul trouble, however, and things looked discouraging when the All-American center was tagged with his fourth personal.

"We had no intention of taking Benson out," said Knight. "We were either going to win it or lose it right there. We started to hold the ball when they were in the zone because Benson was least susceptible for fouling. Benson played extremely smart with four fouls. He positioned himself well and made the key plays. And we had three guys out there setting up Benson and Woodson." Benson wound up with 24 points.

In college basketball action Saturday, top-ranked San Francisco trounced St. Mary's 99-82; Washington upset No. 2 UCLA 78-73; No. 3 Kentucky trimmed Auburn 89-82; No. 4 Wake Forest defeated North Carolina State 84-77; No. 10 Nevada-Las Vegas nipped No. 6 Louisville 99-96; No. 7 Alabama turned back Mississippi State 73-69; No. 8 Minnesota outscored Iowa 61-58 and No. 9 Marquette hammered Manhattan 86-60.

In the second ten, No. 11 Tennessee whipped Louisiana State 91-64; No. 12 Cincinnati stopped Georgia Tech 84-73; No. 13 Arkansas routed Rice 78-51; No. 14 North Carolina bested Tulane 106-94; Maryland upset No. 15 Clemson 84-78; No. 16 Providence tripped LIU 99-85; St. Bonaventure stunned No. 17 Syracuse 91-84; No. 18 Arizona beat New Mexico 88-84; No. 19 Detroit downed Wayne State 123-77 and No. 20 VMI turned back Richmond 92-87.

Bill Cartwright, Winford Boynes and Marlon Redmond scored 21 points apiece as San Francisco beat St. Mary's and clinched a tie for the West Coast Athletic Conference. One more WCAC victory will earn an NCAA playoff berth for the powerful Dons, who are undefeated in 25 games overall this year.

Mike Neill, James Edwards and Chester Dorsey combined for 54 points to lead Washington over UCLA and tighten up the Pacific-8 Conference race. It was the second Pac-8 defeat for the defending champion Bruins and put them just a shade ahead of three teams tied for second — Oregon, Washington and Washington State. UCLA has lost one fewer game than the others.

Kentucky defeated Auburn behind crucial point production from Jack Givens and Larry Johnson. Given scored 16 of his 24 points before the half as the Wildcats built leads as large as 15 points. Then Johnson scored 16 of his 18 in the second to hold off the Tigers.

Wake Forest wiped out a 17-point deficit behind Skipi Brown to beat North Carolina State in an Atlantic Coast Conference thriller. Brown finished with 30 points.

Nevada-Las Vegas also came back from a 17-point deficit in beating Louisville behind Eddie Owens' 21 points. Robert Scott and Reggie King each scored 18 points as Alabama beat Mississippi State. Osborne Lockhart's two free throws with 16 seconds left led Minnesota over Iowa. Marquette beat Manhattan behind Bo Ellis' 22 points.

Reggie Johnson scored 19 points, pacing Tennessee past LSU. Cincinnati defeated Georgia Tech behind Brian Williams' 17 points. A 24-point performance by Marvin Delph led Arkansas over Rice, clinching at least a tie for the Razorbacks in the Southwest Conference. Phil Ford scored 30 points, pacing North Carolina over Tulane. Jo Jo Hunter's 24 points led Maryland past Clemson.

Bob Cooper and Joe Hassett teamed for 45 points as Providence blasted LIU; a 37-point performance by Essie Hollis led St. Bonaventure over Syracuse; Arizona beat New Mexico as Herm Harris and Bob Elliott combined for 44 points; Turono Anderson's 31 points triggered Detroit past Wayne State 123-77 and VMI whipped Richmond behind Will Bynum's 34 points.

Do or die time for NHL Barons

CHICAGO (AP) — It was an unavoidable question. Cleveland Barons Coach Jack Evans answered it as best he could.

What's going to happen to his team at today's National Hockey League Board of Governors meeting?

"Like the players," he said, "I just have to wait and see."

Only two things could happen:

Either owner Mel Swig will cease operation of the financially troubled team or, with just seven weeks remaining in the regular season, the governors will decide to keep the franchise afloat and worry about it over the summer.

The team has suffered money troubles virtually since it entered the league as the California Seals 10 years ago. Should it go under, it would become the first NHL club to fold since the Brooklyn Americans retired from the league in 1942. Players under contract to the Barons would be auctioned off to the highest bidder.

Swig has attempted continually to refinance the staggering franchise. He planned to report his progress — or lack of it — to the board today.

If he can't come up with more money, and sources say he needs $1 million to finish the season, the team will go under. The league has made it clear it won't bankroll the club, and has prepared a standby schedule for 17 teams to finish the season.

"We have got a potential loss for this club, since its inception, of $11 million," said NHL President Clarence Campbell. That goes back to the days when the league operated the franchise after buying it from Oakland's Charles O. Finley.

"By the end of the meeting, I think the Cleveland 'incident,' if you want to call it that, will have run its course," Campbell said.

There's a deadline causing great concern to Swig, Campbell and the rest of the league. The Barons players were not paid on Feb. 1, and will become free agents at midnight Thursday — even though the players agreed to a deferral of 27 per cent of their salaries in an effort to keep the club afloat.

Riverview Gardens 2A mat champions

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Riverview Gardens and Jackson are Missouri state high school wrestling champions for 1977.

Riverview amassed 100 points over the weekend to easily wrap up the Class 2A title while Jackson won the 1A crown with 73 points.

Four Riverview Gardens wrestlers won their events; Tim Dillick, 98-pound class; Charles Neff, 105-pound; Rocky Streb, 119-pound and Dale Lighthouse, 155-pound.

Park Hill was second in 2A with 61½ points, followed by Hazelwood Central, 60½; Pattonville, 56 and William Chrisman, 54.

Other individual 2A winners were: Jeff Jenkins, Winnetonka, 112-pound; Mark Halligan, St. Joseph Central, 126-pound; Kurt Longstreet, Neosho, 132-pound; Wes Roper, William Chrisman, 138-pound; Earl Rayford, Beaumont, 145-pound; Brad Mosely, Park Hill, 167-pound; Eric Anderson, Lindbergh, 185-pound, and Tom Woodland of St. Louis Central, heavyweight.

Kevin Rampley, in the 138-pound class, was Jackson's only individual winner. Higginsville and Monett tied for second in 1A team scoring with 66 points. Odessa was next at 58½ followed by Lexington, 57½.

Othe individual winners: Charles Grossman, Lexington, 98-pound; Martin Essary, Monett, 105; Phil Bruner, Moberly, 119; Joe Pope, Maryville, 126; Dennis Hampton, Fulton, 132; Jeff Foglesong, Ste. Genevieve, 145; Kent Kargel, Willow Springs, 167; Paul Gadt, Higginsville, 185, and Jim Gouley, Carthage, heavyweight.

Top seeds enjoy tennis weekend

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

It was not a bad weekend to be seeded No. 1 in a tennis tournament. At least not for Ilie Nastase, Guillermo Vilas and Chris Evert.

Nastase, Vilas and Miss Evert each won tournaments in various locales throughout North America Sunday.

Nastase, the temperamental Romanian, edged Poland's Wojtek Fibak 4-6, 6-2, 7-6 in the tense final of the Mexico City International tournament.

Vilas, of Argentina, lost the first set of the $50,000 Springfield, Mass. International Classic final to Stan Smith, then rallied for a 3-6, 6-0, 6-2, 2 triumph.

And Miss Evert, the world's top-ranked women's player, eased past Margaret Court of Australia 6-1, 6-3 in winning the $100,000 Women's Professional Tennis tournament at Chicago.

The only top-seeded loser Sunday was Raul Ramirez of Mexico. He was beaten by second-seeded Eddie Dibbs in the final of the $50,000 Miami Grand Prix Classic.

The Nastase-Fibak match went down to the last point of the third set tie-breaker. Fibak held match point on his serve in the tie-breaker, but Nastase broke the Pole's serve, then smashed a powerful passing shot for the match.

"I am very happy the way it turned out," Nastase said after collecting the $30,000 first prize.

Now—$1 enrolls you in the new Physicians Hospital Policy that lets you choose your plan and renewal rate. It pays you cash benefits from the very first day you're in the hospital—$900 a month ($30 a day).

We guarantee to issue you this insurance—regardless of your age, health or family size. Then you can renew for as little as $7.55 a month—depending on your age.

- Pays cash benefits from the very first day of hospitalization.
- Pays $900 a month cash—$30 a day—for you, your wife and children.
- 50% cash increase for cancer and heart attacks.
- New sicknesses and accidents are both covered immediately.
- No limit to the number of days you can collect cash benefits.
- Cash benefits paid direct to you—to spend as you wish—unless you tell us otherwise.
- Guaranteed renewable for life.
- Pays over and above any other insurance you may have—including Medicare.

These days, one of the most scary things about going to the hospital is the final bill. Inflation has driven up the average price of hospitalization in the United States to $130 a day according to the American Hospital Association. So even if you already have basic hospital insurance, it only covers part of the cost. You have to come up with the rest.

Meanwhile, if you're hospitalized for any length of time, your income may stop. And those bills will keep piling up at home—rent, loans, mortgage, telephone, utilities, credit card and all the rest. Pretty soon, you could find most of your savings are eaten up. You could even wind up deeply in debt.

Now for the good news: Physicians Mutual Insurance Company—run by doctors since 1902—has created this new Physicians Hospital Plan to help give you and your family extra protection against the high cost of hospitalization. Here's how it works—and why you should enroll now:

$900 a month—$30 a day—cash!

Hospital rates are usually the same for everybody. That's why this policy pays the same $30 a day cash benefit when you, your wife or any of your children are hospitalized for any covered sickness or accident. Compare these benefits with other policies that pay reduced benefits for dependents.

50% increase in cash benefits for cancer and heart attack: $1350 a month, $45 a day.

No one likes to think about getting cancer or having a heart attack. But it happens all the time. About 53 million Americans now living will eventually have cancer. That's 1 in 4 persons.* And it's estimated that nearly 4 million people have a history of heart attack. We sincerely hope you never have to collect. But if you should, daily benefits are increased 50% if you or any covered member of your family are hospitalized for cancer (including Leukemia and Hodgkin's Disease) or heart attack (acute myocardial infarction, coronary thrombosis and coronary occlusion).

Double benefits for you and your wife!

When your wife is covered and both of you are hospitalized at the same time due to accidents, your daily benefits are increased. That's right, you get twice the regular cash benefit—$3,600 a month ($120 a day) to help you through this emergency. By the way, hospitalization doesn't have to be due to the same accident: you and your wife could be injured in unrelated accidents.

*American Cancer Society American Heart Association

If you have any questions about this policy call 800-228-9100 toll-free from anywhere in the Continental United States. (Nebraska residents, call 402-558-8900 collect). Our Customer Service staff is ready to serve you from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Central Time, Monday thru Friday.

Pays you maternity benefits, too!

You'll collect full benefits—$30 a day—for hospitalization due to pregnancy or any pregnancy complication, if coverage includes your wife and if your policy has been in force for 10 months. There's no added cost to you!

No waiting period for accidents or new sicknesses.

You're covered the very minute your policy is issued and put in force for new sicknesses—and accidents. That means you could be rushed to the hospital a few minutes after you get your policy—and be able to start collecting your $30 a day benefits immediately, starting that very day!

You get lifetime coverage and benefits.

There's no limit on the number of days for which you can collect cash benefits. You can be hospitalized as often as necessary and stay as long as you have to—knowing that your $30 a day benefits cannot run out. Our plan will pay you benefits for as long as you're hospitalized—even for life!

Pays cash benefits in addition to any other insurance you have.

Remember, this is extra, supplemental protection. Your benefits are paid over and above any other insurance you may carry—including Blue Cross/Blue Shield, Major Medical and Medicare. This policy is designed to help you make up the difference between your total hospital bill and what your other insurance will pay.

Your benefits are not taxable.

Your benefits from your Physicians Mutual Policy are not taxable by any level of government. They are not subject to state or Federal income tax.

Your policy is guaranteed renewable.

Don't forget, this extra protection is yours as long as you want to have it and pay your premiums when due. We cannot drop you or cancel your coverage because your health changes, or because you're a few years older, or because you've submitted a number of claims. On the other hand, you can drop your policy on any renewal date. Also, your premium can never be increased unless premiums are raised on all policies like yours in your entire state.

Please note these exceptions.

Pre-existing conditions (health problems that became evident or were medically treated before the effective date of the policy) are not covered for one year from the date the policy is issued. Half-benefits ($15 a day) are paid for up to 4 weeks confinement due to mental disorder. Not covered is hospitalization for alcoholism, drug addiction or any condition covered by Workmen's Compensation or Employers Liability Law benefits. Confinement in nursing homes, or the self-care, extended-care or convalescent units of hospitals is not covered. Pregnancy or any consequence is covered after your policy is 10 months old.

Backed by Physicians Mutual—the company run by doctors since 1902.

From its founding in 1902 until 1962, the Company specialized in health insurance for physicians, surgeons and dentists exclusively. Then, recognizing the growing need for insurance to supplement basic hospital coverages, Physicians Mutual began making such protection available to the general public. And was one of the first companies to do so. Today, our various policies protect over 1,000,000 Americans in all walks of life.

Remember, you're doing business with a company that delivers what it promises. Last year, we paid claims totaling over $50,000,000 on all policies. That's a return of over 70% of premium income paid out in benefits to policyowners—one of the highest in the entire insurance industry.

Physicians Mutual Insurance Company is a mutual insurance company headquartered in Omaha, Nebraska. It is not affiliated with any national, state or local medical association.

We can't say "No" to you.

Don't worry, we guarantee to issue you a policy. You will not be turned down because of your age, health or size of your family.

As soon as we receive your Enrollment Form, we will issue your policy (P350 Series) and put it in force. From that day on—even before you receive your policy in the mail—you're covered for new sicknesses and accidents. Naturally, we can issue only one policy to you on a guaranteed issue basis.

If you're already a Physicians Mutual policyowner and would like information about additional coverage available to you, please write for details.

You can enroll in this new Physicians Hospital Policy right from this page. All you need do is fill out the short Enrollment Form and mail it together with $1—which pays for your first month.

No salesman will call or visit you.

Now—Physicians Mutual gives you a choice of extra protection plans and cash benefits.

First, choose the insurance plan that fits your needs best.

Individual Plan

Choose this plan if you're single or only want to cover one member of the family. Pays you $900 a month cash—$30 a day—when you're hospitalized for a covered sickness or accident.

Husband-Wife Plan

Designed for the married couple without children or whose children are grown and no longer dependent. Pays $900 a month cash—$30 a day—when either of you is in the hospital for a covered sickness or accident. Maternity included at no extra cost. And benefits double when both husband and wife are hospitalized at the same time due to accidents.

All-Family Plan

Offers protection for the growing young family. Covers you, your wife and all your eligible dependent children—including future additions. Pays the same $900 a month cash—$30 a day—for every insured family member. Maternity covered at no extra cost. And benefits double when both husband and wife are in the hospital at the same time due to accidents.

One-Parent Family Plan

Created especially for the single parent with children. Covers you and all eligible dependent children. Pays $900 a month cash—$30 a day—when you or an insured child is hospitalized for a covered sickness or accident.

Remember, your first month's premium is $1. Then you can keep this extra protection working for you for the renewal rates shown below for your age.

	Under 40 (Use age of principal insured)	40 and Over
Individual Plan	$7.55	$9.95
Husband-Wife Plan	$13.65	$18.75
All-Family Plan	$16.85	$21.95
One-Parent Family Plan	$10.75	$13.15

Note: Your renewal rate does not increase as you move from one age group to another.

Or, if you prefer, choose cash benefits of $600 a month ($20 a day).

Up to now, you've been reading about $900 a month ($30 a day) cash benefits. You can have all the features of this fine policy at a lower rate, if cash benefits of $600 a month ($20 a day) better suit your protection needs. Your policy will still pay cash benefits from the very first day—still pay 50% increased benefits for cancer, heart attack—still pay double benefits when husband and wife are hospitalized at the same time due to accident—still pay lifetime benefits—and we still guarantee to issue you a policy.

Your first month's premium is $1 and you can keep this extra protection working for you for the lower renewal rates shown below for your age.

	Under 40 (Use age of principal insured)	40 and Over
Individual Plan	$5.35	$6.95
Husband-Wife Plan	$9.65	$12.95
All-Family Plan	$11.85	$15.15
One-Parent Family Plan	$7.55	$9.15

Note: Your renewal rate does not increase as you move from one age group to another.

A Special Invitation to Folks 65 and Over.

Physicians Mutual warmly welcomes your enrollment in this new extra protection hospital plan. And we guarantee to accept you regardless of your age and health.

Perhaps you're thinking that because you have Medicare, you don't need additional coverage. Not so. Despite its many fine features, Medicare does not cover all of your hospital expenses. That's why our new plan pays you daily cash benefits to help meet expenses—and for every day of your hospital stay, regardless of how long it might be.

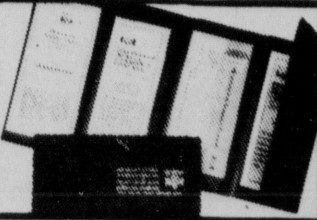

No rate increase at age 65.

We also know most older folks are on a fixed and often limited budget. So, instead of raising rates when you become 65, we pay half-benefits ($15 a day) for the first 60 days of hospitalization after age 65. You get the full $30 a day cash benefits after that. And your monthly premium continues to be the same as when you first enrolled in the plan.

So, you'll have cash coming in when you're laid up in the hospital—regardless of how long you may have to stay. Enroll today in this new, extra protection hospital plan.

Your policy comes in this handsome vinyl wallet.

It's a convenient way to keep your important personal papers in one place. With your policy, you also receive a Claim Form. It's easy to use and assures prompt processing of your claim when an accident or sickness puts you in the hospital.

Money-Back Guarantee

We will send you your Physicians Mutual Hospital Policy (Form P350 Series) by mail. When you receive it, read it through. You will see that it is honest, direct to the point and easy to understand. If for any reason, you decide that you do not want this protection, you may return the policy within 30 days and we will promptly refund your dollar.
